The Color consciousness

The earth is constantly evolving and this evolution is now coming to the new level. As the earth is now going through millions of changes, we also find a lot of subtle changes in the consciousness of the people. Now earth is a 6th degree sacred planet. This is something that we need to congratulate about. Earth is now going into the 6th dimensional consciousness. So what does all this mean to us be it to even someone who is the normal working adult? Of course it is important to know what to do in a 6th dimensional consciousness. There is a lot of changes that can be made to not only make your life better but also others better.

The 6th dimensional consciousness is the consciousness of color and tones. In this level, color becomes very important. For the past couple of years people are more interested in biotechnology because earth was in the 5th dimensional consciousness. In this level of consciousness, people are more concerned with the DNA and the creation of the DNA. Therefore the industry for DNA research and modification was booming like mad. Now people are still doing DNA research however they are moving. In this new dimension, color and sound is the star player. People are beginning to awaken to how color and tones can affect the mind and body.

This is very evident from the fashion and the technology development. There are things like color therapy which is increasing in popularity and even the modern technology integrate color into their product. Like the TV which have the color side lights. These are how subtle color are coming in. The monotone fashion style of the clothing are also changing to more color variety and emphasizing on better color combination. All these changes are in fact the change of how people perceive color. The color trend is becoming more and more interesting.

Color affects us very subconsciously and so in order for us to be more efficient in this new degree, we must know how to work with color. Firstly, we must always remember, color is also a healing agent. Most of the time color is very important for the healing of people. Especially at times like this, the color you wear is amplified by the world's polarity and the dimensional energy. So all these changes would make your life easier or difficult. If you work with a color in which you lack, then most of the time you will be happy. This is because you are constantly healed. If you wear something you are in excess, you will become very unbalanced. So how to know if you have the color or not?

Just see what is your favorite color? It is always something we need. We attract what we do not have. So just work around it and match some complementary color to make your life feel fantastic.

Also most industry would also concentrate on colors. So it would be good if there is an addition of color in the things you do. Therefore it would also brighten the energy of the whole project. If you happen to notice, even colors like pink are coming into the consciousness of men. So what is next?

The 6th dimension is also about sound. So it is important we honor the music we hear. The more soothing the music is, the better the healing is for you. However, I am not suggesting that we should only listen to new age music. This is because even some bands and singers are becoming more spiritual and the music is becoming higher in vibration. So as long you feel comfortable, that is more important. Just remember sound also heals. Therefore affirmation and decrees also work 3 times more effective than it use to. So the programming would be firm.

Color and sounds can also be added into your words so that it helps to bring about a higher consciousness in others like peace like the deep blue sea. Make it more colorful and it will also make your words more impressive. Remember to be as colorful as the rainbow and all will be well.
