

Magic of daily Life

What is the most wonderful magic in this world? It is life. In life, people are constantly evolving and learning about how to expand the use of the next day. Even for spiritual personnel, they might be wondering what the latest information is in the inner plane. This in fact is a glamour of life, for life in fact, can provide the most beautiful and bountiful things. As the evolution of human goes, people think about things either too scientific or things that are too airy fairy. To appreciate the Magic of daily life, it involves not only constantly thinking about what is magical. The truth is to ask what can be magical.

Life is beautiful because it is able to provide us with things that we do not know and do not understand. Take a very good example, people more than often forget about the plant kingdom. The plant kingdom in fact is one of the most important kingdoms in this planet. For the planet earth is green because of the plants, and abundance is normally represented by wheats and fields. These are all signs that show how powerful the plant kingdom represents. In the context of magic, herbs can provide special energy that can heal and recreate various energy pulses. In science they are therapeutic; this also proves the powers of plants. This is also the representation of how magic is hidden within the plants waiting to be explored.

Many people tried to look for the underlying structure of magic. What does magic mean and how it works? These are all the efforts that people are trying to do to find the truth. In fact the answer is always there. There is really no need to search far for the answer. Magic lies in the heart of everyone. This is also one of the gifts in every individual. In every person's life, there is something that means a lot to him/her. For example, the sea means a lot to me, so how magical is the sea? The sea creates the blue of planet earth. It is powerful yet nurturing. It does not stop moving and it is serene. These are what the things in your daily life can bring the magic to you. You are already in this mist of magic.

So the understanding of the magic of life comes from how we interpret life as a whole. Life creates from a seed, from this seed, it grows into a plant and this cycle is continued to the beginning stage of the seed. This magical cycle creates the world and all of creation. This is also the underlying structure for the Flower of Life. One can only understand the way how things evolve and grow by understanding the magic of life. There is no need to search and ponder. It is happening right in front of you.

Therefore, to conclude I would like you to think of what is something which you really mean a lot to you. From there you will find the magic will begin by even the mere touch of the item.
